

PLASTIC KILLS

A dramatic illustration of the Earth rising from the ocean, splashing water, with plastic debris floating below the surface. The scene is set in a dark, deep blue environment. The Earth is shown as a large, glowing sphere with visible continents and oceans, partially submerged in the water. A large splash of white water erupts from the base of the Earth, suggesting a powerful impact or emergence. Below the water's surface, numerous pieces of plastic debris, including bottle caps, fragments, and other unrecognizable pieces, are scattered throughout the dark water, highlighting the extent of plastic pollution. The overall tone is somber and urgent, emphasizing the environmental crisis.

ACT NOW!